PULL AND HAUL IN WASHINGTON

Diverse Interests Cause Delays in Congress.

REAL ACTION VERY UNCERTAIN

Differences of Opinion Upon Cotton Bill and Farmers' Wool Bill Make Future Action Extremely Indefinite.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Congress re-convened today under conditions that give no promise of definite results within the week and considerable uncertainty as to when it will be possible to adjourn.

In the senate the resolution for statehood for Arizona and New Mexico is the order of business and under the unanimous consent agreement a vote is to be taken on the resolution before adjournment. There are perhaps a dozen senators who want to debate the resolution. It is not likely that the discussion can be concluded today.

The action of the senate finance committee in according time for hearings on the cotton bill postpones report on that measure.

Some of the southern Democrats expressed the opinion that Senator La-Follette, who is the senate representative on the sub-committee of the conference committee on the wool bill, is purposely holding back a report on this measure until he gets a vote in the senate on the cotton bill. This prospect is not pleasing to those southern senators who have been hoping that a veto might be drawn out of the president on either the wool or the farmers' free list bill before the time came for a vote on the cotton bill and that in that veto message the president would make his attitude toward tariff legislation so clear that the futility of passing any more wool bills might be impressed upon the senate and the cotton bill be allowed to go over.

Senator LaFollette appears to be the key to the situation. Conferences between LaFollette and Mr. Underwood, who is acting for the house on the subcommittee of the conference committee of passing any more bills and the farmers' free list bill, have practically been suspended until Thursday.

Chairman Underwood said that he believed an agreement would be reached within three or four days, but added that he did not believe that the LaFollette bill would be accepted as the compromise. It is the understanding that LaFollette is canvassing his insurgent followers to learn how many of the thirteen will stand for a reduction of the duty on raw wool below that carried in the senate bill and just how much reduction they will stand.
Representative Underwood on the other hand has a recalcitrant element to deal with among his followers, represented by those members who were originally for free wool.

The consideration of the cotton bill in the senate and the prospects that the Democrats in the house will try to pass the wool bill and the free list bill over the president's veto are the factors that are likely to work delay in adjournment. The house, it is conceded, will be able to pass the bills over the president's veto. The senate will then be put to the test and an effort will be made in that body to follow the house action and override the presidential veto.

MILAN RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY AT HER HOME

Mrs. J. W. Garty was shocked to receive the news this morning that Mrs. E. P. Ten Eyck of Milan, who had been her guest last week and had returned to Milan Saturday, had passed away Sunday night at ten o'clock. Mrs. Garty and daughter, Miss Theresa Garty, will attend the funeral at Milan Tuesday.

HELD FOR KILLING FATHER

Murder Charged Against Joseph Vacek by Coroner's Jury in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—A coroner's jury ordered Joseph Vacek, seventeen years old, a graduate of the Lane Technical High School, held to the grand jury for the murder of his father, Joseph Vacek, Sr., whom he shot in the family residence, 2629 South Hamlin avenue, Friday.

Lieutenant Ptaszek introduced the accused boy's confession, in which he stated that he killed his father in self-defense. He said his father had asked him to shoot his mother and attacked him when he refused to kill the woman. The lieutenant also told of finding the revolver, which the boy hid under a sand car on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad tracks following the crime.

FAST TRAIN LEAVES TRACK

NARROW ESCAPE FOR PASSEN-GERS ON PENNSYLVANIA'S 18-HOUR FLYER.

Indiana Harbor, Ind., Aug. 7.—Passengers on the eighteen-hour Pennsylvania flyer for New York narrowly escaped death or injury when the engine, tender and baggage car jumped the tracks after leaving Indiana Harbor and toppled over in a ditch.

None of the passengers was hurt beyond receiving a jar when the engine threw on the brakes, bringing the train to a stop within a few feet.

SERMON ON MOUNT A GREAT INFLUENCE ON CIVILIZATION

The Rev. William H. Gardam, in his sermon Sunday morning at St. Luke's spoke from St. Matthew, verses 15 and 16. In part he said: "The Sermon on the Mount has had more to do with the world we live in, more to do with our estimates of life, our standards of duty, our methods of judging what the individual does, what the community does, what the world does than all other influences and ethical teachings that have entered into and wrought their effect upon the life of the human family.

"The immediate world our Lord came into, in which His own personal history was wrought out, both in the things He taught of Man's Kingdom and the works He wrought that man might know all his powers over his own life—this world found itself strangely puzzled and strangely enfeebled in seeking the things that belonged to its peace and its happiness and perfection. The Jew had been trained by generations and centuries in the belief and conviction that God had ordained his people to a world of privilege and light and knowledge that had not fallen to the lot of the Roman or the Greek or the barbarian.
He believed his national life to have been marked with the footsteps of Jehovah's presence. So great was this conviction of his peculiar world and his peculiar pre-eminence among the peoples of the earth that his religion had become a caste. He had grown to believe that he was made of different clay, that God had given him an interior world privilege He had denied to the rest of the world.

"Our Lord reveals this Jew world to itself, its narrowness, its smallness, its heartlessness. He shows it to be not only a bigoted world, but also a coward-world. He shows that the Jew had failed utterly and that this failure of the Jew came on the narrowing of his world, the believing that God governed His world on a law of favoritism, that He was a Respector of persons; the believing that religion was a caste.

"Jesus became revolutionary, because there was so little in the life of the day He could build upon. The axe was laid to the root of the tree, because it was fruitless and dead, a witness to its own decayed life. He compelled this decayed world to condemn itself and then revealed what a wonderful world, what a wonderfully rich life God had ordained and made possible for man. He revealed that mercy was more than sacrifice, that God is not a dogma, a doctrine, a concept, but a Father, and that like as a Father pitieth his children, even so is the Lord merciful to them that fear Him. He taught that His kingdom was not a caste, but a universal social organization and that every child of this toiling world was eligible and that no life should fail of finding its world.

"And this is the mission of the church today. We have to do our work; we have first to see it, get hold of our commission, and then plan and execute it in the very day we are living in. Living means the application of powers and gifts and efficiencies to the work of life. To be read while we live is simply to deny the law of our being by not working at our life-business. No work in God's world is automatic, nothing in life does itself.

"To be a Christian is not to have your name on some church-roll and to be known to be a subscriber to some specific organization. It is not to be known by a given sectarian name.
Many of us are more pretenders, counterfeit Christians. We go through life on a policy of shirking and we have abundance of company. We are on trial; we are all being tested. It is a responsible world. We are bound to do our part, or we are bound to be found out. The greatness of our life is in our making of it. Let us cultivate the open vision, the ready and efficient hand, the large soul, trained and responsive for service."

SUNDAY SERVICES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS FROM THE PULPITS

The first of the out-of-door union services was held Sunday evening on the lawn stretching between the Baptist and Presbyterian churches. There was an attendance of about two hundred. The Baptist choir furnished the music. Miss Lucile Ross and Verne Pettit sang a duet, "Far o'er the stars there is rest."

The Ypsilanti Home association will hold its August meeting with Mrs.
Guy E. Davis, 112 S. Washington St., on Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. L. D. Pettit, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church in Jackson is visiting his brother, Rev. Marshall H. Pettit, of this city, and preached Sunday morning at the Baptist church.
A feature of his sermon was a beautiful original poem, which was very much admired.

A special meeting is called for this evening at 7:30 at the church house of the German Lutheran Young People's society to consider matters in connection with the excursion to Tashmoo Park and Port Huron which the Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor churches are giving.

Two Boys Burned to Death.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 7.—Two little boys, Elmer and Floyd Crispell, aged six and four years respectively, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of their uncle, Frank Lyon, near Munith. It is believed that the boys were playing with matches.

Theatrical Manager Dies

Pittsburg, Aug. 7.—Richard M.
Gulick, port owner and manager of the Lycium theater and who was known to theatrical men from coast to coast, died at his home here.

SIGNAL CORPS TO HAVE USE OF AUTO THIS WEEK

The work of the Ypsilanti Signal Corps at the state encampment at Port Huron is to be considerably facilitated this year by reason of a loan the company has had. A motor car company in Adrian has rigged up a fine automobile in a way to be of a great service to the men. The back of the car has been done over to serve the purposes of a truck, while the front seats are retained. In setting up the wireless stations and preparing for the maneuvers, a great deal of moving about is necessary and a large amount of equipment has to be transported from place to place. It is to this use that this car will be put.
Formerly a wagon and horses were used for the purpose. Sunday in Recreation Park pictures were taken of the Signal Corps company and this car was given a conspicuous place.

SUPERIOR FARMER FINDS FREAK GRASS HEAD IN HIS FIELD

W. S. Rooke of Superior township is exhibiting a peculiar specimen of summer grass. It has developed like the ordinary crop with the exception that there are two perfectly formed heads at the top of the single stalk instead of one. Mr. Rooke states that in all his experience as an agriculturist (and that has been a good long experience) he has never before seen a similar specimen.

BADLY BURNED BY CURRENT Power House Employee at Albion Has Narrow Escape from Death.

Albion, Mich., Aug. 7.—Howard Sebastian, an employee at the station of the Commercial Power company, narrowly escaped death.

Sebastian, in performing a certain piece of work at the station, threw a tape line over a high tension wire. Unbeknown to him, the line contained a fine metal wire. The fluid ran down the tape, passed through Sebastian's body and out through his shoes. He was hurled to the floor with great violence and this probably saved his life, as the tape line was freed from his hands, both of which were burned.

Have our professional demonstrator, Mrs. M. A. Schenk, show you the graceful effects of the famous new model Gossard Corsets at Davis & Kishlar's store, tomorrow.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in our recent sad affliction.

REJECTED LOVER KILLS

Triple Tragedy Is Enacted in Olivia, Minnesota.

Spurned Suitor Enters House in Night, Shoots Father, Daughter and Himself.

Olivia, Minn., Aug. 7.—William Wolff, his daughter Cora, and Edward Corey were shot and instantly killed at the Wolff home here. Edward Corey did the shooting. He was a rejected suitor of Miss Wolff.

Corey called at the Wolff home, but was told by the girl's father to leave the house and not return. Early in the morning he entered the Wolff home while the family were asleep and went to the girl's room. Her screams aroused her father, who was shot dead as he crossed the threshold of Cora's room.

Mrs. Wolff fled to Sheriff Vick's home, two blocks distant. Sheriff Vick, accompanied by Marshal Sherin, hastened to the house and attempted to enter the bedroom where Corey was. They were warned away by Corey, who threatened to shoot.

Immediately two shots were heard and when the officers forced in the door they found three dead bodies.
Both the Wolff and Corey families are numbered among the oldest residents of Olivia.

HARD BLOW FOR TOWN

Manistique Railway Track Now Being Taken Up.

Grand Marais' Last Hope Departs When Dismantlement of Its Only Line Begins.

Seney, Mich., Aug. 7.—It is now more than nine months since the Manistique railway, the connecting link between Grand Marais on Lake Superior, and the line of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad at Seney, was sold under mortgage to the Manistique Lumber company of Detroit, followed by the announcement that service would be discontinued and the equipment sold.

The announcement caused consternation among the business men and residents of the community. Mass meetings were held and the state railroad commission was appealed to, but without avail. Regular service was discontinued early last fall, although occasional trains were run until winter set in and again this spring.

Since last fall several options on the road have been taken, all of which have expired, and rumors have been abroad from time to time that different interests would acquire the property and re-establish railway service, all of which have proved unfounded. In the meantime the Manistique Lumber company has disposed of the southern end of the road from Seney to Wilman, to the Escanaba Lumber company, together with the shops and a portion of the rolling stock.

All the rest of the equipment, with the exception of one locomotive, a caboose and a few box and flat cars, has been disposed of to other parties, the latter being reserved for the purpose of taking up the thirty-two miles of track remaining between Grand Marais and Seney, which is now in progress.
The steel is being loaded on cars and hauled to Seney for sale and shipment.

Thus, from now on, not a locomotive bell or whistle will be heard in Grand Marais. With its excellent harbor, fine town site and various other natural advantages, it is believed that some day Grand Marais will "come back" and enjoy greater prosperity than ever. Meanwhile the town is practically dead and is steadily losing its remaining inhabitants.

FINDS FRESH WATER PEARL IN GROUP OF LAKE CLAM SHELLS

Ann Arbor, August 7.—Miss Zoia Fox of this city, while on her vacation at Rainbow Lake, Wisconsin, found 29 fresh water pearls in a basket of clam shells which she opened.
They range in size from seeds little larger than a pin head to the size of a small pea, and several are nearly round and of a beautiful color. Miss Fox did not have time to have them valued while in Milwaukee.

COERCION DENIED BY BECKEMEYER

Refutes Detective Keeley's Story—Confession Voluntary.

TELLS ABOUT $1,000 BRIBE Reviews Circumstances of Payment for Lorimer Vote by Lee O'Neill Browne and of Sharing in Jack-Pot Distribution.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Charges that he made his confession only after being coerced by State's Attorney Wayman and detectives attached to the state's attorney's office were denied, absolutely by H. J. C. Beckemeyer, former member of the Illinois legislature before the Lorimer investigating committee of the senate.

Mr. Beckemeyer told the committee of the circumstances under which he received $1,000 from Representative Lee O'Neill Browne for his vote for Senator Lorimer and $900 from Representative Robert E. Wilson as his share of the jack-pot, and of the later developments in his own case.

Mr. Beckemeyer declared there was not a particle of truth in the story that he was taken by Patrick J. Keeley, a detective formerly attached to the state's attorney's office, on a tour of the "red light district" and made intoxicated and then was browbeaten into confessing. Mr. Keeley told this story in the trial of Lee O'Neill Browne and was later indicted for perjury and acquitted.

The former representative said that he voluntarily made up his mind to make a clean breast of the whole matter and told Mr. Wayman he would do so. He made his confession before the grand jury, he said, on the same day that he came to Chicago in response to a subpoena. Earlier in the day he had been taken before the grand jury and had denied knowing anything about corruption.

Through the action of Mr. Fred Fay of this city in accepting the intervention of the court, the Des Moines street car strike was called off Sunday afternoon and service resumed after a 40-hour blockade. Mr. Fay is an international board member of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway Employees of America and he conducted the strike.
He asserts that the court has granted what was requested by the union, namely the reinstatement of a conductor whose recent discharge without an investigation led to the trouble.

A dispatch from Des Moines concerning the situation says:

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 7.—After lasting nearly forty-eight hours the Des Moines street car strike, which was marked by scenes of violence, was terminated, for the present at least.

The injunction issued Saturday night by Judge De Graff of the district court was the means of halting what threatened to be a long and bitter labor struggle.

For the first time in the history of the country, the order of a court put an end to what gave every indication of becoming a long and bitter struggle between organized labor and capital.

The mandate issued by Judge Lawrence De Graff of the district court last night was obeyed promptly by the Des Moines City Railway company, and the carmen's union and while there is ample prospect of a bitter fight later in the courts, one thing is certain, an injunction has restored, temporarily, at least, nearly 500 conductors and motormen to their original positions.

The suit in equity which terminated the strike was brought by the city of Des Moines on the order of the city council Saturday night. A hearing to determine whether the injunction shall be made permanent probably will be had tomorrow.

11,000 MINERS ON STRIKE

MEXICAN WORKERS COMPLAIN AND QUIT BECAUSE OF POOR PAY.

Monterey, Mex., Aug. 7.—The strike of 11,000 miners in Eloro district is still unsettled. The chief grievance of the strikers is that they were so poorly paid that they had to live on tortillas while the foreigners in the camp ate white bread.

Several political prisoners in the prison at Chihuahua went on a strike when they were pardoned, refusing to leave the prison unless liberty was given to the other prisoners.

YPSI GRANGERS HAVE CHILDREN'S DAY OBSERVANCE

The Ypsilanti Grange, No. 56, met Saturday at the home of James Downing. Children's Day was observed with a program presented by the children of members. Miss Bessie Court sang a solo; Josephine Warner, Robert Bird, Lee Downing, and Gordon Gill gave recitations; and songs were sung by Camilla Strang and Thalia Grachen.

Mrs. Leona T. Field gave a talk, largely dealing with temperance, to the children, which was enjoyed by the adults as well.

YPSI COUPLE OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Today marks the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Osband. Both were born 75 years ago in Arcadia, New York, and were in school together. After their marriage they came to Northville where they organized the union school.
Later they taught in Olivet and Albion. In 1882 Mrs. Osband was elected professor of natural science in the Normal here where she remained 13 years. In 1887 Mr. Osband became interested in the weekly Ypsilantian which paper he published until it's sale to William B. Hatch in 1908.
Since that time he has spent his time chiefly in his garden and despite his advanced age is enjoying splendid health. Mrs. Osband has not been quite so fortunate in maintaining her health, still she continues to have a deep interest in educational improvements and advancement.

"WHAT IS SOCIALISM?"

Mr. Kauffman devotes a rather lengthy chapter to the discussion of "The War of the Classes." He opens it with a quotation from President Taft, when he was United States Circuit judge, in an opinion delivered in the Phelan case, sustaining the right of labor to organize for the peaceful promotion of its own interests.

The Socialist then, says Mr. Kauffman, "believes that Capitalism has created two classes: the employer and the employed. His theory is that all society, under Capitalism, is thus divided: that there is no third, or middle, class; that the employing class exists by exploiting the employed, and that the division, always sharp, is steadily becoming sharper—at which stage of his exposition he adds that the ultimate separation has inevitably brought forth an irreconcilable opposition of interests between the pair of classes—the Capitalists and the Proletariat—an opposition, that he variously calls, as we have previously noted, the Class Struggle and the War of the Classes."

Capitalism opposes this attitude. They say, "Any statement of American class-antagonism is false and artificial upon its face, because there are no classes in the United States, because men have always been able to rise from among the employees to a place among the employers, and because any theory of divisional struggle is contrary to the very principles of equality before the law upon which our government is founded. It is dangerous, because it creates bitterness by appealing to the passions of the mob; it is low because it presupposes that society is shaped solely by selfish motives, and it is evil because the theory of a Class Struggle means a theory of economy, politics and morality based upon the animosity of man toward man."

"The Socialist's reply to this begins by his statement of the whole theory of Class Struggle which, generally understood is a rule of social evolution. Both sides have organized so that we have an organized class of ruling employers opposed by an organized class or ruled employees."

"What, asks the Socialist, 'is the purpose of the employer?' and he answers: 'To get the most labor for the least wages.'"

"And again: 'What is the purpose of the employee?' To which query he replies: 'To get the most wages for the least labor.'"

"The profit of the employer is to be had only from that sum of money which lies between what the workman earns and what the workman is paid. But that the two classes exist is evidenced by the fact that they are organized for the purposes named."

ADVERTISING IN THE NEWS COLUMNS.

"Big business," and business not so big but hoping to be sometime, are now convicted in the courts of newspaperdom of deliberately stealing from the newspapers, through publicity in the news columns, millions of dollars annually, which ought to be entrusted with the newspapers in their advertising columns, and this, invested there and paid for at the usual prices, would bring to the counting-house department of the newspapers a snug item, considered in the aggregate. Advertising agencies, formerly reputable, have degraded themselves to the point of deliberately entering into contracts with large advertisers, agreeing to get them this free advertising in the news columns and charging them a good sum for it, but a sum which would represent less than the commission which they would have to pay in order to get their advertising in the usual channel.

These schemes were thoroughly exposed by a New York representative of an organization of the newspapers for self-defense at the recent National Editorial Association convention, now the National Press Association. Communities too have gone deliberately about getting this sort of advertising—that is, some communities in the southwest and the northwest. Regular press bureaus have been established and send out to all the newspapers press news.

This morning's mail brought a communication to both the Press and the Ypsilantian, seeking to get just such news advertising as this. It savors of the stock-yards and the beef trust, but they didn't have the decency to sign the postal card, which they had printed full of information which they hoped to have both papers print, free of course, and which would benefit nobody as a matter of news except the beef interests of Chicago. They seem to have retained all of the gall from the many millions of beavers which they have slaughtered.

The newspaper publisher has a limited amount of space to sell to legitimate advertisers, if he magnifies his office, and this is practically his only asset—the news is rarely self-supporting. He sacrifices, if he is in the best class of publishers nowadays, a large amount of advertising in order to keep his columns clean. We say "sacrifice," we are inclined to think that in the long run he does not sacrifice, because the clean advertisers will appreciate being in good company, and his columns are just that much more attractive and valuable to the clean advertiser, and he keeps the money of his good readers from being sent out of town in exchange for something which is worthless, if not positively damaging, and he saves that money to the clean advertisers and to the people in whose homes his papers go from day to day.

He is not small about saying a good word, even in the news columns, for some enterprising stunt perhaps which some of his advertisers have accomplished in the community. But the main kick comes from the non-resident exploiter, who hasn't any interest in our town and seems perfectly willing to steal the space which represents just that amount of money, and the cost of putting the stuff up. And against him and his ilk, the press of the country is organizing for their own protection and the protection of the honest advertiser. Both should cooperate in exposing these fellows, as well as denying them space in the news columns or elsewhere, unless they pay the same price that honest advertisers pay.

Since the return of the saloons to Flint the council of that city have increased their police force by eleven new members. Another vivid illustration of the working of the law of cause and effect.—American Issue.

NEWS BRIEFS

STATE

KALAMAZOO—An interesting feature of the meeting of the Lincoln Voters' league Saturday was the exhibition by President G. C. Winklow of the Kalamazoo Historical society of a cane presented by Abraham Lincoln to the late D. S. Walbridge, at one time member of congress from this district. It is a straight stick of walnut and bears near the top a portrait of the martyred president taken when a young man.

FLINT—An important new industrial plant has been assured to Flint in the formal announcement made today of the organization of the Mason Motor company, which has just filed its articles of incorporation.

NATIONAL

SILVER BAY, N. Y.—Plans for the national campaign of the men and religion movement have been completed here. The object is to bring into relationship with the churches the 3,000,000 needed to equalize the church membership of men and women. Conspicuous among the members of the three teams who will visit the 90 picket cities will be Raymond Rabins, well known as a labor unionist and social worker of Chicago.

TREMPEALAU, Wis.—What is said to be the largest bed of golden lotus in the United States is now in full bloom at Round Lake and is attracting hundreds of visitors. The plants cover about 200 acres of the lake's surface. How they came to this lake is a mystery. They are found nowhere else than in this state, in the vicinity of New Orleans and in Egypt.

BOSTON—The seventh annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America was brought to a close on Friday with the election of George W. Coleman of Boston as president, the selection of Dallas, Texas, as the next convention city and a dinner at Symphony hall, at which unexpected features were the presentation of a silver loving cup two feet high to the Pilgrim Publicity Association by the English delegation, the gift of a touring car to the retiring president, S. C. Dobbs, of Atlanta, and the latter's presentation of a hampered silver bowl to the Pilgrims.

PHILADELPHIA—Work upon four of the eight dikes that are to be built into the Delaware river, the first of the many difficult engineering projects in the $10,000,000 project of deepening the channel to a uniform depth of 35 feet, will be begun within a few weeks.

TAUNTON, Mass.—A Cleveland Bent of this city, who was recently chosen by the Smithsonian Institution of Washington to complete the history of birds in North America, has returned home after a successful trip to islands in the Behring sea. He was in search of birds, manules and geographical matter for the famous Washington institution.

FOREIGN

LONDON—The London county council has decided that $500 is to be spent in preserving Cleopatra's Needle on the Thames Embankment from further dilapidation, owing to the action of the atmosphere.

ADELAIDE, South Australia—A reputation, representative of 27 Australian societies and institutions and 12 corporations and district councils, waited on the commissioner of crown lands with a request that the area of 140 square miles set apart on Kangaroo island as a reserve for Australian fauna and flora should be increased to 300 square miles. The deputa- tion was favorably received.

When Is an Old Maid?

"Some day the marriageable age for women will be advanced from 20 to 30, and the old maid line will be changed from 30 to 40. When that time comes there will be surprisingly few divorcees. The husband of whom we dream at 20 is not at all the type of man who attracts us at 30. The man I married at 20 was a brilliant, morbid, handsome, abnormal creature, with magnificent eyes and very white teeth and no particular appetite at meal time. The man whom I could care for would be the normal, safe and substantial sort who would come in at 6 o'clock, kiss me once, sniff the air twice, and say, 'Mm! What's that smells so good, old girl? I'm as hungry as a bear. Trot it out. Where are the kids?'—From "Dawn O'Hara," by Edna Ferber.

"Talking Buncombe."

In historic Buncombe county, N. C., was originated the phrase "talking Buncombe," for in this mountainous country years ago Col. Edward Buncombe founded his famous hall and placed the words, "To Buncombe Hall, Welcome All," over his doorway. The expression, "I am talking for Buncombe," meaning Buncombe county, became current hereabouts by home folks, but unregenerate strangers have used it to signify political blarney or exaggerated praise.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

NAPOLEON'S FEEBLE SON.

One would suppose that the son of a man like Napoleon Bonaparte would inherit at least some of the strong qualities of his father, yet such was not the case with the Duke of Reichstadt, the only child of Napoleon and Marie Louisa. He was born at Paris March 20, 1811, and was given the proud title, "King of Rome." That Napoleon expected great things of him is evidenced by his exultant exclamation, "Now begins the proudest epoch of my reign!" Four years later the emperor left France forever. Marie Louisa took the boy and returned to Austria, and the father never saw him again. He grew up into a feeble manhood physically, and gave no evidence of possessing the genius of his illustrious parent. He was made Duke of Reichstadt, and entered the Austrian army in early youth. He reached the rank of lieutenant colonel, but this was probably by reason of birth rather than of merit. In 1832 he was seized with "quick consumption," and died July 22 of that year. Thus the boy in whose birth such great hopes were centered failed utterly to fulfill them. To his credit be it said, however, that so far as known he was a youth of good character, studious and amiable. It is said that the deprivation of the society of his boy was the heaviest cross the emperor had to bear in his exile.

AMUSEMENTS

The management of the Young Buffalo Wild West show, which comes to this city for an afternoon and night engagement, Thursday, August 10, claims to have a surprise in store for the amusement lovers. They claim upwards of 700 cowboys, cowgirls, Cingalese, Mexican rurales and larlat throwers, Russian Cossacks, N. W. Canadian mounted police, U. S. Cavalrymen, and rought riders from all quarters of the globe. They further state that 300 mustangs, broncos, and Indian cow ponies is the sum total of the horse flesh with the aggregation. Among the star of the arena world with the show are Annie Oak, ley, the world's greatest woman rifle shot and Ambrose Means the daring American cowboy, who, with the Buffalo Jones expedition, went to East Africa on the famous bloodless hunting trip. Means is the man who actually cast the lasso which captured lions, tigers, rhinoceri, and other denizens of the dark continent—a feat of recklessness and daring the like of which has never before been recorded. Ambrose Means will give a vivid illustration of just how the wild animals of Africa were captured at each performance of the Young Buffalo Wild West show. Although a big feature in this show, which boasts of so many men and women who have won international fame, he is by no means the preeminent one.

Plumber Who Took the Plum.

"You're wanted," said the small boy. "Who wants me?" demanded the plumber. "Number one hundred-and-thirty-seven—the house you've just come from." "Do they think I can work all hours of the day?" retorted the plumber. "You'd better come," persisted the small boy stoutly, "or it'll be too late. Ma's got hysterics and pa's gone nearly mad, and—" "Look here, sonny!" asked the plumber, "what's up?" "Well, I think you've connected the wrong pipes, or something," replied the boy. "Anyhow, the chandelier in the parlor is spraying like a fountain, and the bathroom tap's on fire!"—Answers.

THE DEPRESSING INFLUENCE OF FAILURE TO GET ON.

Many people are so constituted that almost their entire effectiveness and efficiency depend upon their prosperity. They can do a tremendous amount of work under the stimulus of success and promise. If they feel that they are getting on, advancing, they are courageous, resourceful, inventive, original; but just as soon as they feel that they are going backwards, even if through no fault of their own, they become depressed, lose heart; their courage and enthusiasm evaporate; when failure stares them in the face, hope dies out and everything drops; the wind seems to go completely out of their sails, and they wilt and flap.

One of the most dangerous things for those who are in the clutches of discouragement in the paralysis of effort often produced by failure.

It is easy to work when we see splendid prospects ahead. When we see that our blows are telling, we can continue to swing the hammer. Few people are so constituted that they can do their best work in an apparently hopeless cause. But it is hard to work with enthusiasm and courage when everything seems to be going against us, when we can see no light ahead, no encouragement. The temptation in those trying periods of discouragement is the paralysis of trying, and to think that perhaps we have made a mistake in our ambition, and that it might be better to try something else.—(Oris Swett Marden in "Success Magazine.")

He Never Woke Up.

A market gardener was on his way to the great Paris markets with a carload of vegetables, when he fell asleep. His horse, being familiar with the road, kept on. At midnight the vehicle reached a grade crossing, where the gate had accidentally been left open. An express train hit it, and smashed the cart to splinters. The farmer was found unconscious on his turnips, but otherwise none the worse for wear. His horse was grazing quietly in a neighboring field.

Needham, Cubs' Veteran Catcher, Who Is to Quit.

Tom Needham, the veteran catcher of the Chicago Nationals, has intimated to a few close friends that he intends to quit the game at the end of the season. Needham is one of the oldest catchers in harness today. While not a star of the first water, he has always put up a creditable game behind the bat. For the past two years he has been a member of the Cubs and has been used as second string catcher.

Bike Riders on Long Tour.
Arrangements have been made for a world's tour for ten of the leading American cyclists immediately after the finish of the New York six day race in December. Floyd McFarland, Jackie Clarke, Iver Lawson, Joe Fogler, Al Goulett, Paddy Van Hehir, Elmer Collins, Jimmy Moran, Willie Penn and Eddie Root will leave for Berlin, where the first race on the world's tour will take place during Christmas week. The race will be a six day affair, and after the contest in that German capital there will be a week of sprint racing.

From Berlin the riders will go to Sydney, Australia, where they will engage in another six day grind in February. After a fortnight's rest the riders will engage in another six day race at Melbourne. At the conclusion of the Melbourne race the outdoor season will be on, and the globe grinding cyclists will remain until its close, returning to this country about May 1, 1912, for the season here.

This is the biggest trip ever planned for the riders, and they have been guaranteed a handsome sum.

Record Time For Double Header.
Rochester and Newark played two full games recently in two hours and thirty-two minutes. The second game, in which ten runs were scored, was completed in one hour and seven minutes.

This is believed to be a record for a double header, while the second game is believed to be a record for a contest in which ten runs were scored. Rochester won both games, 3 to 2 and 9 to 1, so that each went eight and one-half innings.

Gissing May Become Coach.

It is just possible that Harry Gissing, the fleet footed former New York A. C. middle distance runner, who is touring foreign countries, will not come back for a couple of years. He has been offered a position to coach members of the Berliner Sport club of Berlin, Germany, a batch of athletes who are to represent Kaiser Wilhelm's domain in next year's Olympic games.

Plan Course Which Will Rival Henley.

A rowing course rivaling in size and beauty the famous Henley course on the Thames river, England, is being planned by Chicago rowing men and veterans of college crews. Grant park, which is now being enlarged and improved along its water front which faces on Lake Michigan, is the location favored by the men promoting the idea.

Training to Blame.

The injustice in the case of a girl sixteen or eighteen years of age who cannot earn money enough to support her in decency lies not always in the insufficient wage, but in the fact that she has not been trained in the arts of self-support.—Christian Register.

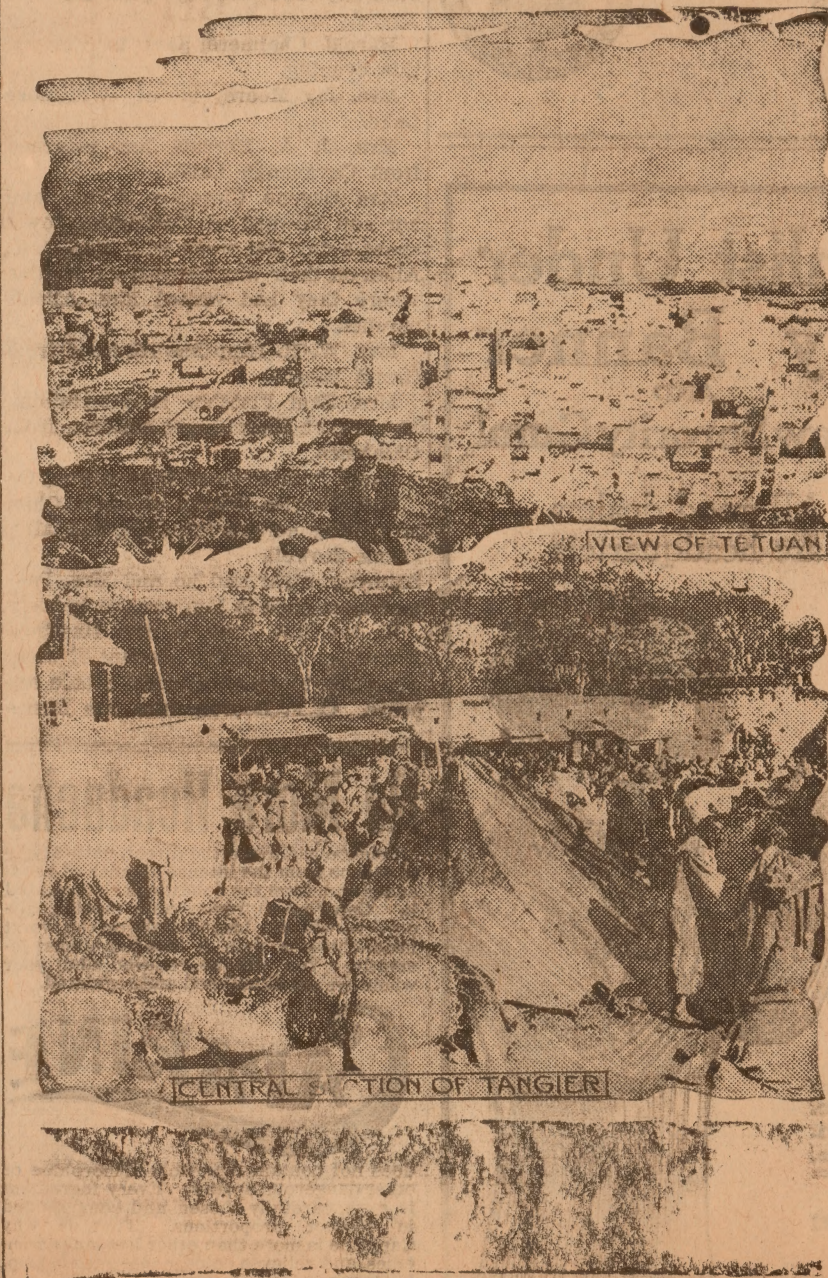

Industry of Orchid Collecting.

In the Brazilian state of Pernambuco orchid collecting has developed into a large industry which affords employment to many foreigners as well as natives. From there orchids are either shipped direct to foreign ports or are sent to coast firms which act as agents for business houses all over the world.

Fond Hearts Finally United.

After waiting 30 years for her to become a widow, George Slegarm of Wilkesbarre, Pa., has married Mrs. Marietta Tephern of Hazelton. When they were young in Germany, they fell in love, and would have married had it not been for the opposition of their parents. They tried to elope, but were discovered and caught before it was possible for them to wed. Slegarm, despondent and angry, emigrated, and his sweetheart, who was married a year after he left, followed a few years later with her husband, who died a short time ago. Slegarm later discovered that his old sweetheart lived in Hazelton. The old courtship was begun again and culminated in their wedding the other day.

A NIHILIST'S DESPERATE DEED

Story of a Queer Bet and Why It Was Made.

GIVES FORTUNE OF $10,000,000 TO CHARITY.

Doctor, Member of Austrian Noble Family, Won't Accept It.

Because he believes that $10,000,000 would be of greater benefit to mankind if spent in establishing hospitals, municipal homes and asylums for the poor, the ill and the aged than if he retained that sum in his possession Dr. Samuel Balla, member of a noble house of Austria, has renounced his undoubted claim to one of the greatest estates in Germany, consisting of large parcels of land in the heart of Breslau and valued at approximately 40,000,000 marks.

Dr. Balla is a practicing physician of Los Angeles. The recent deaths of other relatives have left him the only living heir to the estate of General Frankel, a maternal relative.

"I left titles behind me when I left my native country," said Dr. Balla. "It was then and is my desire to become a good American citizen with an opportunity to make my own way. I studied medicine in the universities of Paris and Berlin. I know something of the value to the world of great hospitals and charitable institutions in metropolitan centers, and it is my belief that the Frankel fortune is thus best disposed of for the good of humanity."

The doctor's determination does not indicate a weakness in his claim to the estate, according to the documents and other evidence in his possession. Everything was in readiness to take the claim before the imperial court of Austria at Vienna when Dr. Balla himself put an end to the negotiations.

WELSHMEN ON PILGRIMAGE.

Four Hundred Sail For Six Weeks' Visit to Their Native Land.

Off on a six weeks' pilgrimage to their home land, 400 Welshmen sailed recently from New York. They came from many cities of the United States and Canada.

The Cambrian Concert company of Pittsburgh, made up mostly of Welshmen, was included in the party. They expect to sing at the Carmichael elstedsing and afterward make a tour of Wales, singing in the larger cities.

In the great crowd that sailed were many who have not been in Wales since they came here as small children a half century ago. One old man said that he did not expect to find many of his playmates alive, for he left Wales when he was a tow headed boy of seven. That was fifty-eight years ago. The oldest traveler was probably Anthony Howells of Canton, O. He is seventy-nine years old.

"A visit to my native land is always interesting," he said as he stood on deck surrounded by many young men and women. "I was a very young fellow when first I came to this country. I have practically seen it grow up, for I remember much that some of the old men have forgotten. The secret of long life is a regular life and good habits. I am nowhere near death, for I expect to make another visit to Wales again in ten years. Of course crossing is no new experience with me. I have made fourteen trips, not counting my first one."

The visit of the Welshmen to their native land is the outcome of a meeting of the Welsh societies in the United States, and the object is to amalgamate the lodges into one grand lodge. Many of those who sailed are American citizens. Nearly all the time they are abroad will be spent in Wales. Chancellor Lloyd-George will take part in welcoming them, and it is probable that they will be presented to King George while in London.

Two men were conversing in a wing of the Winter palace in St. Petersburg, the one the Grand Duke Nicholas, the other Captain Dmitri Warascoff of the Russian army. The grand duke was sitting behind an ebony desk; the captain was standing before him.

"Your treachery is an unpardonable sin," said Nicholas. "I have advanced your interests by attaching you to the czar's staff, thus opening to you a career. You have repaid me by joining this conspiracy against the czar."

"I have not!" exclaimed the captain indignantly.

"I have the proof."

"Let me see it."

The grand duke held before the young man a letter written in the captain's handwriting and signed by him. The accused man started back, sudden pallor overspreading his face.

"Ah!" said Nicholas icily. "When confronted with evidence your assurance deserts you."

"I never wrote that letter!"

"It is in your handwriting."

"So nearly like it that I could not tell it from mine. Nevertheless it is a forgery."

Nicholas' eyes flashed. "Who would be interested in perpetrating such a villainy?"

"I cannot imagine. Stop! Let me think. Can it be that they are trying to get me out of their way?" He paused in deep thought.

"What do you mean?"

"I suspect certain men, a certain man especially, owing to an accidental discovery I recently made of an attempt not on the life of the czar, but on yours."

"Whom do you suspect?" asked Nicholas, changing color.

"One of them is my friend. If I accused him it might be wrongfully. I would rather go to Siberia than harm him if he is innocent."

"You will go to Siberia if you do not give me his name."

"Then I will go to Siberia."

The door opened and a young man named Pertoff entered.

"How fortunate," exclaimed the corner, "to find you two together! I have heard that Warascoff is in trouble, and I came to say to your imperial highness that any accusations against him are absurd."

"I am sorry to say, Pertoff, that I have indisputable proof. Read that!" And he tossed him the letter he had shown the captain. Pertoff read it and flung it aside contemptuously.

"The capital is full of plotting," he said. "I believe no accusations, for I am as likely to be accused as any one. Dismiss this matter from your mind, Nicholas. We three are intimate friends. None of us knows how soon he may fall a victim to intrigue. Therefore let us not worry, but enjoy what of life remains to us. Bring out some of that wine I tasted when we were last together and let us make merry."

The grand duke, though not convinced, concluded to fall in with his friend's humor and, tapping a bell, he ordered the wine.
